ACOMPANHAR AO VIVO

Take a Seat

Erwin Nanasi

25 de julho de 2026

Before You Press Play

As you watch Irwin sit in the chair on stage and unpack Isaiah 55:1-3, notice how he connects being seated in worship with covenant grace, personal holiness, and surrendering your whole self to God.

PARA REFLEXÃO

What Does the Chair Mean?

As Irwin compares a classroom, courtroom, waiting room, dining room, theater, boardroom, hospital chair, electric chair, and throne, what is he trying to make you notice about a church pew?

PARA REFLEXÃO

Seated for Worship

When he asks whether the pew says watch, wait, listen, learn, belong, or worship, which meaning seems to stand out most in the sermon so far?

> The body adapts to repeated posture and so does the soul.
>
> — The Body and the Soul

PARA REFLEXÃO

The Church Lady and the Dead Spot

Why does the story of the woman who had donated for better acoustics, yet sat in the sanctuary's dead spot, matter to Irwin's point about posture and mindset?

PARA REFLEXÃO

Come Hungry, Come Thirsty

In Isaiah 55, why does Irwin emphasize that God's invitation has no qualifiers, and what does that reveal about grace and access to God?

> Grace has given you and me a place that I could never earn.
>
> — Grace Makes the Difference

PARA REFLEXÃO

From Transaction to Relationship

How does Irwin move from the image of buying bread and milk without money to the deeper truth that God wants a relationship with us so that our soul may live?

PARA REFLEXÃO

What Repeated Posture Is Shaping You?

When Irwin talks about modern life, long hours of sitting, and the soul accommodating inactivity, what habits of spiritual passivity might he be warning against?

PARA REFLEXÃO

Who Sits With You?

How does the progression in Psalm 1 help explain Irwin's warning that the people around us can normalize what we eventually accept?

> It matters who you're sitting with. It matters who you're learning from because every community normalizes something.
>
> — Community Shapes Allegiance

PARA REFLEXÃO

Herod's Table

What does the story of Herod, his banquet, and John the Baptist reveal about fearing the approval of others more than the authority of God?

PARA REFLEXÃO

What Sits on the Chair of Your Life?

When Irwin asks whether it is you, success, prestige, status, or safety sitting on the chair of your life, which rival allegiance is he pressing you to surrender?

> Grace does not make wholeheartedness unnecessary. Grace makes wholeheartedness possible.
>
> — Wholeheartedness and Grace

PARA REFLEXÃO

Seated With Christ

How does Irwin connect Jesus being seated at the right hand of the Father with the believer's identity, acceptance, and hope in the everlasting covenant?

PARA REFLEXÃO

Your Final Response

As the sermon ends with the question, "Everyone worships something. The question is, what do you worship?", what concrete act of surrender, holiness, or renewed worship is God asking from you today?

ORAÇÃO

Prayer After the Sermon

Lord, thank You for inviting us to come when we are thirsty, hungry, and empty. Give us spiritual discernment to notice what shapes us, courage to surrender what does not belong on the chair of our lives, and a willing heart to worship You with all we have. Help us live in the grace of Your everlasting covenant and respond with wholehearted holiness. Amen.