Before You Press Play

Watch for how he moves from the question at New Hope Fulton—"is there a purpose to my life?"—to Micah, Jesus, and the picture of abundance, justice, love, and compassionate living.

PARA REFLEXÃO

The Big Question

What does he say makes this final episode so personal compared with the earlier questions about God, the Bible, suffering, and death?

> is there a purpose to my life? You know, why am I here?
> — Purpose Question

PARA REFLEXÃO

Secular Meaning

How does he contrast a secular or evolutionary view of life with the idea that your life has purpose?

PARA REFLEXÃO

His Own Turning Point

What were the preacher's own life paths before ministry, and what moments pushed him toward asking what God wanted him to do?

PARA REFLEXÃO

Micah's Summary

When he brings up Micah, what does he say God's expectation of people is, and why does he think those three commands are not simple to live out?

> Do justice. Mhmm. Love mercy. Walk humbly with your god.
> — Micah's Call

PARA REFLEXÃO

Jesus' Summary

How does he explain Jesus' summary of life as loving God and loving your neighbor, and why does that matter for Christian ethics?

> love God with everything you've got. And love your neighbor as yourself.
> — Jesus' Summary

PARA REFLEXÃO

Abundant Life

What does his son's story at the dinner table teach about abundance, and how does that shape the way he understands Jesus' promise of life in its fullest?

PARA REFLEXÃO

Quality Over Stuff

Why does he say abundance is not mainly about cars, houses, or quantity, but about the quality of a life with purpose?

> I've come to give you life and life in its fullest life and its abundance.
> — Life in Full

PARA REFLEXÃO

Faith and Doubt

What does he say to the person who says, "I just don't believe," or "I don't understand enough yet," and how does he describe faith as something that grows over time?

PARA REFLEXÃO

Messy Disciples

Why does he say having a messy life is actually part of following Jesus, and what examples from the disciples does he use to show that faith does not start finished?

PARA REFLEXÃO

Your Next Step

As the sermon ends, what does he invite listeners to do day by day, and how might that change the way you live out grace, justice, and compassion this week?

ORAÇÃO

Closing Prayer

Lord, help me trust that my life has purpose in you, to love you fully, love my neighbor well, walk humbly, do justice, show mercy, and receive the abundant life Jesus gives. Amen.
